

Tina: Why did you become a safari guide, Ms. Ota?

Ms. Ota: Because I love animals, and I wanted to work for wildlife conservation. When I was in college, I volunteered to work for the Savannah Conservation Project in Botswana. There, I was totally blown away by the scale of nature in Africa. I was attracted to the work of safari guides, too.

Eri: I think you are brave to go to Africa alone.

Ms. Ota: You only get one life. It's a waste not to challenge yourself. If you take the first step toward your interests, you'll find a way.

Words college 大学 the Savannah Conservation Project in Botswana ボツワナ [アフリカの国] のサバンナ保護活動 totally すっかり scale 規模、スケール Africa アフリカ attract(ed) (興味など) を引く alone 1人で
waste むだ interest(s) 興味 ■ blow away ~を感激させる
■ take the first step toward ~ ~への1歩を踏みだす ■ find a way 手段を見つける